About Persian Cultural Foundation

The Persian Cultural Foundation (PCF) is a registered 501(C) (3) non-profit organization. The PCF was established in 1995 in New Jersey to support and promote academic and community projects as well as cultural activities that pay tribute to Persian heritage.

A central mission of the PCF is to facilitate processes that would encourage the Iranian-American youth and American society at large to enhance their familiarity with Persia's multifaceted historical and contemporary contributions to the world civilization. The PCF is committed to preserving and presenting Persian heritage in literature, arts, music, performing arts, science, technology, medicine, public health, trade and commerce. The PCF is further committed to conveying this rich legacy to future generations.

The PCF currently has six members on the Board of Trustees and eight members on the Advisory Board. The funding for the PCF is provided by private donations.
